New Canal To Be Built In 10 To 15 Years

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A historic presidential order has opened the way for a new Atlantic-Pacific canal to replace the Panama Canal within 10 to 15 years.

The new canal is to flow at sea level through Panama or a neighboring country, and will probably put the old passage-way with its expensive locks out of business.

The troubled 1903 treaty with Panama is to be scrapped soon in favor of a new pact which the United States hopes will heal old wounds while the original canal becomes a relic of bygone days.

President Johnson went before television cameras Friday to read his landmark announcement that the United States will now "press forward in earnest" to achieve the long discussed goal. He announced:

1. Secretary of State Dean Rusk will start talks with three or four countries which have potential canal sites — Panama, Colombia, Nicaragua and perhaps Costa Rica — looking toward agreements with any interested in obtaining the new route. Then on-the-spot engineering surveys will be made in those countries signing agreements to decide which site is best.

2. "An entirely new treaty on the existing Panama Canal" will be proposed to Panama to replace the half-century-old pact that gives the United States Canal Zone rights "in perpetuity."

The new treaty would retain U.S. rights needed to run and protect the present canal, but it would recognize Panama's sovereignty.

U.S. control of the 10 by 50-mile Canal Zone strip as exercised under the 1903 accord would end when the new canal opens.

Friday's announcement climaxed lengthy talks between the United States and Panama begun after the bloody anti-American riots there last January. Panama's president Marco A. Robles hailed it as "a historic day" for his country.

The announcement also marked a turning point in the years of deliberations over building a second trans-oceanic waterway for security and for the growing ship traffic already starting to clog the present canal. Johnson noted that 300 modern vessels which have been or are being built are too big to pass through the canal when loaded.

The broad aim of the U.S. move is thus to solve in a combined package both the recurrent political troubles with Panama and the physical need for a new canal.

What the new canal would cost is a matter of guesswork, with estimates ranging from $750 million to about double that amount depending on the site and excavation methods. The old canal cost $380 million and went into operation 11 years after he reay was signed.

Johnson said he seem to be four possible routes — two in Panama, one in Colombia and one in Nicaragua which may go through Costa Rica too.

The 95-mile Colombia route would parallel the Atrato River. Colombia's public works minister Friday night said that sparsely populated route would be best because atomic explosives could be used to excavate inexpensively.

The Nicaragua route of some 140 miles would veer across the Costa Rican border south of Lake Nicaragua to avoid draining the large lake at heavy economic loss to Nicaragua.

The 59-mile Sazardi-Mori Panama route would traverse comparatively flat and undeveloped land. Also in the running is the present Panama Canal. U.S. officials said the main chore in converting it to sea level would be digging out the Gaillard Cut which is now a high point.

Rights Chiefs Think State Is Complying

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Civil rights leaders said Tuesday that Arkansas generally is complying with the public accommodations section of the Civil Rights Act. But they indicated they would not hesitate to take legal action where they believed their rights were in jeopardy.

"I would commend Arkansas for trying to comply with the Civil Rights Law in the face of opposition we have had from the state officials," said L. C. Bates of Little Rock, field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Rev. Ben Grinage, a field secretary for the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, said, "We are preparing to test this thing (the law) on a larger scale and we will file suits when necessary."

Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett said that Gov. Orval E. Faubus is interested in establishing a fund to pay legal expenses small businessmen might incur because of the Civil Rights Act.

"If the federal government is going to furnish legal counsel for one side, we should do something for our people who cannot help themselves," Bennett said.

Bennett said this did not mean defending persons who might be involved in criminal actions growing out of racial troubles. But he said the state should do something for persons taken to court when there was some doubt about whether their business was covered by the Civil Rights Act.

Bennett's proposal prompted Bates to say, "It's a pity we have a man like that. I don't know what he's trying to do."

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled Monday that the public accommodations section of the Civil Rights Act is constitutional.

Bennett said the law is being observed in most Arkansas cities, including Little Rock, Pine Bluff, Texarkana, Blytheville, El Dorado, Forrest City, Brinkley, Hot Springs and Fort Smith.

He said Negroes can get service in restaurants and motels and can enter once white-only theaters in most cities.

Bennett said the SNCC had threatened "an invasion (of Arkansas) next summer similar to what Mississippi went through this past summer."

Grinage said that a "remote possibility" of such an influx of civil rights workers existed, but added that "no concrete plans have been formulated."

Guantanamo Fully Self Sufficient

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten months after Fidel Castro turned off the tap, the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo has become fully self-sufficient for its fresh water.

The Navy said today that the third and final unit of a plant to convert sea water into fresh water went into operation Dec. 6.

The plant produces 2.2 million gallons of fresh water a day — well above the normal requirements of the base's population.

When a new power plant is cities cost about $10.7 million.

Castro abruptly shut off Guantanamo's fresh water source — river water which entered the base through a pipeline — last Feb. 6. He did so in retaliation for U.S. seizure of some Cuban fishermen in American waters.

Less than a month later, Castro offered to turn the water back on, but the United States spurned that offer. This country had been buying water from Cuba for about $14,000 a month.

President Johnson ordered that the base, which Castro has demanded be given up by the United States, should be made entirely self-sufficient and independent of any water from Castro's territory.

Soviets Reject Compromise In Dues Squabble

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union reportedly has rejected a compromise proposal by General Assembly President Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana for settling the U.N. financial crisis.

The rejection was reported by diplomats Friday night, on the eve of another round of talks on the subject between U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

They scheduled a working luncheon at Rusk's New York hotel suite.

The United States "could swallow" Quaison-Sackey's proposal, the diplomats said, but the Soviets were against it. Some African, Asian and South American delegates also opposed the proposal, they added.

It called for setting up a voluntary fund to overcome the U.N. involuntarily caused by the Soviet Union's refusal to pay its share of peacekeeping operations in the Congo and the Middle East.

A 12-nation Asian-African committee representing the 59-nation Afro-Asian group has been promoting its own plan for settlement of the financial squabble.

Quaison-Sackey's plan would state only vaguely that money paid into the voluntary fund would be spent for general U.N. purposes, the diplomats said. The Asian-African plan came closer to saying the money would go to wipe out the U.N. deficit resulting from refusal of the Soviet Union and others to pay their peacekeeping assessments.

The Russians had indicated a willingness to contribute to a voluntary fund provided it was not identified with the peacekeeping costs. Their objection to Quaison-Sackey's plan was not detailed by the diplomats.

The U.S. has insisted that the Soviets and any other members delinquent two years or more in paying their dues be stripped of their General Assembly vote unless they pay up. The Soviet Union is more than $52 million in arrears.

Rusk, who attended a party at the Soviet U.N. mission last night, had three earlier meetings with Gromyko. They touched on disarmament and South Viet Nam as well as U.N. finances.

U.S. sources said Rusk told Gromyko then that negotiations on U.S.-Soviet trade and other economic questions would have to wait until the U.N. financial question is settled. The Russians have shown interest in increasing trade with the U.S. and in setting up a New York-Moscow commercial air link.

A U.S. spokesman said Rusk probably will return to Washington tonight. Gromyko is expected to go back to Moscow Sunday.

The Security Council by a unanimous vote Friday extended the life of the 6,200-man U.N. peacekeeping force on Cyprus for another three months. The move had been recommended by Secretary-General U Thant.

Pressure on for Ending UN Dispute

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Pressure mounted today on the United States and the Soviet Union to settle their dispute over U.N. peacekeeping dues.

The 59-nation Asian-African group, impatient over the delay in General Assembly business reported the no-vote truce, was reportedly determined to take matters in its own hands unless the big powers act quickly.

The group is pushing the idea of a "rescue fund" to which the Soviet bloc could contribute without abandoning its official refusal to pay any peacekeeping costs. This also would head off the challenge to the Assembly voting rights of delinquent members which the United States has threatened.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko told a newsman Russia would contribute to such a fund only if the Assembly unanimously adopts a resolution to set it up.

Pleasant Feelings at Xmas Associated With Children, Especially the Christ Child

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

It has been said that Christmas is for children and that everyone is a child at this season of the year. For some it's a good thing that isn't the literal truth, but it all depends on the interpretation of the word, child.

Generally, the most pleasant feelings are associated with a child, especially the most universally loved baby who was ever born, the Christ Child.

Some years ago an author, whose identity, unfortunately, was not preserved for posterity, set down thoughts concerning this in something entitled, "A Little Child Shall Lead Us." It goes like this:

You, little child, with your shining eyes and dimpled cheeks — you can lead us along the pathway to the more abundant life;

We blundering grown-ups need in our lives the virtue that you have in yours.

The joy and enthusiasm of looking forward to each new day with glorious expectations of wonderful things to come. The vision that sees the world as a splendid place with good fairies, brave knights, and glistering castles reaching toward the sky.

they are.

The genuineness of being one self, to be done with shame, pretense, and empty show; to be simple, natural, sincere.

The courage that rises from defeat and tries again, as you with laughing face rebuild the houses of blocks that topple to the floor.

The believing heart that trusts others, knows no fear, and has faith in a Divine Father Who watches over His children from the sky.

The contented, trusting mind that at the close of day woos the blessing of Child-like slumber.

Little child, we would become like you that we may find again the Kingdom of Heaven in our hearts.

St. Francis ASC Members Resign Posts

FORREST CITY, Ark. (AP) — Three members of the St. Francis County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee resigned here Thursday.

No reasons were given for the resignations, which came after the county ASC Service, farmers and the U.S. Agriculture Department became involved in an investigation of whether cotton crop acreage allotments were overplanted.

Charles Adams of Hughes, Horace Powell of Wheatley and Joseph Whittenton of Forrest City asked that they be relieved of their ASC Committee duties. Their resignations were accepted at the county ASCS convention, which also passed a resolution praising the three for "their the county committee." Adams was committee chairman.

Thomas McDaniel of Forrest City, L.E. Burch of Hughes and George Lalman of Palestine were elected to replace the three men who resigned.

The cotton planting investigation has indicated that several dozen farmers planted more acres than they were allotted.

Barry Claims Burch Drive Aimed at Him

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater was described by close associates today as saying angrily that the drive against Dean Burch is really aimed at him and critics are "not going to push me out of the Republican party."

The defeated GOP presidential nominee told influential Republicans who talked to him at his Phoenix home recently he is solidly behind Dean Burch, chairman of the Republican national committee. Burch's ouster has been sought by some elements of the party, including a majority of the 18 GOP governors and governors-elect.

Burch returned to Washington Thursday night after a conference in Phoenix with Goldwater and Rep. William E. Miller of New York, who ran for vice president. The national chairman said after the conference he has no intention of resigning before a showdown vote of confidence before the National Committee Jan. 22-23 in Chicago.

Today he turns his attention to a meeting with the party's finance committee to take up the 1965 budget.

Leaders who have talked to Goldwater describe the Republican nominee as an angry man who believes that he rallied all of the party conservatives in getting more than 26 million votes. Goldwater was said to be determined that Burch should not be ousted because he feels it would be repudiation of him personally.

Burch was hand-picked for his post by Goldwater.

Although congressional leaders had discounted the controversy over the chairmanship, Goldwater was depicted as feeling it is a test of whether "these people are going to push me out of the party."

And Miller said the only grounds for removing Burch now "is not his performance but because he is a symbol of Goldwater. This party is not going to become a strong party by kicking Sen. Goldwater out."

The view that the drive against Burch is really directed at Goldwater was challenged by Gov. Robert E. Smylie of Idaho, chairman of the Republican Governors Association.

"Nobody's trying to kick Senator Goldwater out," said Smylie Thursday in Boise, "but there are some people trying to get in."

Smylie, who advocates Burch's dismissal, said: "What we need is a party that excludes nobody and includes everyone. This is what Mr. Burch's leadership can't give us. This is why he should go."

IRS In Drive Against Tax Exemptions

By ADREN COOPER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service has mounted a major drive against politically minded organizations that enjoy tax-exempt status — and most of the fire is being concentrated on outspoken right-wing groups.

An IRS spokesman said today the agency's rule against discussing individual cases also applies to organizations. However, the identity of a few of the organizations under investigation was learned from other sources.

They range from the traditional-steeped Daughters of the American Revolution to new organizations which have few followers outside their areas.

Why the emphasis on the right side of the political spectrum?

"We believe we've already done a good job of weeding out the leftwing organizations," an IRS spokesman said. "The leftist outfits have been under surveillance for years. Also, we have more complaints on the ultra-conservatives."

In most cases, the organizations are accused of putting out political propaganda while wearing a philanthropic, religious or educational label.

Only a few of these organizations have any income which could be taxed, but their special tax status is highly prized. As long as they are classified as tax-exempt, their donors can deduct their contributions from their personal income tax.

The several million dollars that would be collected in taxes if these organizations lost their tax-exempt status would be small compared to the potential revenue that could come from another contemplated Treasury move: a revision in the law to restrict the money-making operations of some foundations.

This move would be up to Congress and is not related to the drive on the political interested groups. A recommendation to Congress will come in the early months of 1965.

In the campaign against the use of a tax-exempt organization for political purposes, the IRS has stepped up the rate of examinations from 2,000 a year to 10,000.

Some groups under fire from IRS have said that if their tax exemption is removed, then the government should take similar action against the National Council of Churches and all groups that ever took a stand on any issue.

In reply, an IRS spokesman said, "the law states that a tax-exempt organization must devote a substantial part of its activities to charitable, educational, religious or similar activity. A tax-exempt organization is not supposed to try to influence legislation. Perhaps a good many organizations pass a resolution now and then but their main function is still non-political."

A congressional hearing uncovered an IRS crackdown on Life Line, an organization which has received several million dollars from oilman H. L. Hunt of Dallas to finance radio and television broadcasts.

Also, the Rev. Billy James Hargis of Tulsa, Okla., revealed that his organization, Christian Crusade, was removed from the tax-exempt list by IRS. He plans a court fight.

One of the better known right-wing organizations, the John Birch Society, is not an IRS target. It has never asked for tax-exempt status.

Take Care With Your Yule Tree

Although the Christmas tree is a symbol of peace and happiness, it may become an instrument of fire and thus, destruction. A few precautionary measures should be followed in selecting, preparing, and decorating your Christmas tree.

1. Obtain a fresh tree—not one that is two weeks old before you purchase it. Cut the end off diagonally at least one inch above the original cut. If you cut your own, cut it three or four days before Christmas.

2. Stand the tree as soon as possible in water, wet dirt, or sand. Add additional water when needed (daily).

3. Make sure the tree is well supported so it will not tip over easily. Be sure your tree is not located near a fireplace, radiator, stove, radio, television set, or other sources of heat.

4. Use only those lights with the Underwriter Laboratories Seal UL.

5. Do not leave Christmas tree lights burning for too long a period of time. Always turn them off when you go to bed at night.

6. If long extension cords are used, make sure that they do not present hazards such as tripping.

7. Don't overload circuits by having too many plugs in one outlet.

8. Never use electrical lights on metal Christmas trees. If the wiring is faulty, the tree could electrocute anyone touching it. Angel hair and snow spray, when used together at the same time are a definite fire hazard.

9. Have a plan of action in case the tree does catch fire. Do you have a fire extinguisher in your home?

Citizenship Is Speeded Up

PHILADELPHIA (P) — American citizenship had to be conferred with unusual speed Wednesday when a woman told naturalization officials the birth of her baby seemed imminent.

"There may be one more citizen in the room if we don't get her on her way," said naturalization examiner Herbert Levy.

The oath was administered to Patricia Pinto, 22, a native of Panama, and she was whisked out of the courtroom by her husband, Carl, 29, and taken to a hospital.

It turned out to be a false alarm, Mrs. Pinto said later. "I'm sorry to have caused all the excitement."

The baby is due next week.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Morgan Mason, after four months of acting the role of Elizabeth Taylor's son, is prepared to announce his retirement. He is nine.

This is one of the tidbits related by Morgan's mother, Pamela Mason, just returned from the Paris filming of "Flight of the Sandpiper." She had been suffering from laryngitis, a dread disease for one of the town's most avid talkers. She had re-tart comments on the film an dits participants.

Of her son's career, she reported: "He's back in school here and I never thought it would happen, but he's glad of it. I think he's had his fill of acting."

It was a long, long picture: seven weeks in Monterey, two weeks here and nine weeks in Paris. I don't think he would have minded so much if he had been working all the time. But he would be called only two days a week.

"There were countless delays. At first they were working six days a week in Paris, but Elizabeth put a stop to that. And all of her bathing suit scenes in Monterey were re-shot because she finally lost 15 pounds."

Mrs. Mason said she only visited the set twice during the entire filming. Her absences were purposeful. For one thing, she didn't want Morgan to feel any conflict of authority between the director and herself.

"And also, people on the picture are terrified of me because I talk," she added.

She is just as happy that Morgan is now more interested in

I pushed the telephone back across the bar to the bartender, who put it away. Then I ordered two more drinks.

"They're on the house," Blackie said.

"Not this time," I told him. "I dropped in to buy a drink as a way of saying thanks for everything and goodbye."

"Okay, if that's the way you want it," he replied, and nodded to the bartender, who built the drinks and set them before us.

"You said you would be back in about a month," Blackie said.

"How do you know?"

"I have to come back for Jimmy Denton's trial," I explained. "I'll see you then."

"I'll expect you," said Blackie. He lifted his drink. "Well, goodbye and good luck."

I shook hands with Blackie and went out to the taxi. I told the driver to take me to the airport.

When I got there I went straight to the desk, picked up my reservation, and checked my bag. I showed the clerk my identification.

"You have a reservation in the name of Truman Martin," I said. "I'm going to sit where I can see him check in. After he does, I will either cancel my flight or I want you to put me in the seat next to him."

"I hope there won't be any trouble, Inspector," he said.

"There won't be," I said. "Just be sure to seat me next to him and everything will be fine."

"Yes, sir. You want me to signal you when he comes?"

"No. He might catch it. Besides, if he's the man I think he is, I'll recognize him. You only have to do the one thing. Seat me next to him. So don't put my name on the board now."

He nodded and I left the counter. I bought a newspaper and found a seat where I could see the counter. I opened the newspaper so it would hide my face and pretended to read. There was a small area between the paper and my hand through which I could see the clerk.

It was a long wait and my arms were getting tired when he finally showed up. It was Emery all right. I watched him while he had a few words with the clerk. I noticed he was scanning the names on the seating arrangement back of the clerk. Finally he relinquished his suitcase and took his ticket. I waited until he was on the plane. I went over to the clerk.

"That was the man," I said. "He took a window seat up front," the clerk said. "You can have the other seat." He handed me the stub with the number on it.

Just before I boarded the plane, I took my gun from its holster. I folded my newspaper over my hand so that it would conceal the gun.

I stepped into the plane. There was a stewardess there. I showed her my seat check. "I know where it is," I told her with a smile. I stepped quickly past her and walked down the aisle.

He was sitting well toward the front of the plane.

I slipped into the seat and half turned toward him. He turned his head and then it hit him. He started to make a move, but he caught sight of my gun beneath the newspaper. He stopped and licked his lips.

"Just keep your hands down on the seat," I told him.

His gun was in a shoulder holster. I took it out and put it in my pocket. I put my own gun away and folded the newspaper.

He growled and said nothing. A few minutes later the plane

Customers in Right State of Mind Now

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Along Main Street and in the shopping centers the customers apparently couldn't care less what Wall Street may be worrying about.

In the stores the shoppers are interested only in the way things are today. And today they're better for most people than they ever have been before.

Merchants couldn't be happier about this contented state of their customers' minds. Retail sales are booming in most sections of the nation. Most of the larger stores seem assured of the biggest December ever, and that will mean the biggest year of sales ever, because the 11-month total was already ahead of last year.

Not only are sales higher, but store traffic also is setting records, as you may have noticed when you ventured forth. More people seem to be buying more things.

Many merchants report customers are upgrading their purchases, demanding higher quality merchandise than in years past and willing to pay the higher prices.

The big department stores and chains are now talking of up to 11 per cent larger dollar sales this December than last. This could add nearly $5 billion dollars to their sales for the year. And the Census Bureau says that in the first 11 months of 1964 these stores took in $15.6 billion, compared with $14 billion in the same period of 1963.

Merchants credit many things with giving the big boost to spending. One is the increase in take-home pay due to the federal income tax cut, which just now is showing up at the stores. Another is the general rise in personal incomes due to the increase in the number of jobs and to the higher wage scales that many workers are enjoying this year.

Most potent perhaps is the general prosperity and the feeling of confidence in continuing good times that most consumer intention surveys reveal. There is also the general attitude of let's wait for the uncertainties that freed Wall Street to take visible form.

Stock traders worry about what might happen — a few months hence — slowing of the long-time climb in business activity, inflation, monetary problems besetting the international financial markets, labor demands that could squeeze corporate profits.

Shoppers — and many of the also own stocks — figure all of this is yet to be faced, if ever.

Life in Arkansas

By J.C. TILLMAN
Associated Press Writer

Two little Paragould girls had different reactions on Christmas, according to letters addressed to Santa Claus through the Daily Press there.

One youngster declared that all she wanted for the Yule day was four front teeth — four, not two.

To prove it, she sent a picture — showing the missing teeth.

Another young lass was bit dubious about the requisites for Santa's attention.

"I want some...doll clothes and a .doll carrying case," she stated.

Then, the qualifications: "I have been a pretty good little girl this year. And I hardlyya until Christmas."

The news editor of the Papan-to-News-Record, Esther Bindursky, isn't too sure about Lady Luck any more.

took off and I breathed a sigh of relief.

"You have nothing on me," I said. "I had enough on you before, but if needed we can always use the testimony of Jimmy Denton. I also think your good friends Joe Balk, Pete Jackman and Tip Wright will talk since they didn't get much except a bag to hold. I'm afraid we'll have to cancel that reservation to Brazil."

That startled him. "How did you know about that?"

"I've known about it from the beginning. You left a copy of a magazine with an article on Brazil being a haven for fugitives from America in your room when you took off."

He cursed under his breath. The stewardess came by. "Can I get you anything?" she asked.

"Sure," I said. "You can bring me a martini and a cup of coffee for my friend. He needs it for his nerves."

Emery muttered off and on, most all the way back to New York. I had handcuffs on his wrists, but I couldn't do anything about his mouth without causing a commotion.

DEAR ABBY

LEADING QUESTION!

By Abigail Van Buran

Dear Abby: My husband died in 1951 and he left in excess of $700,000 and I was cheated out of every dime of it. None of the lawyers in this town will touch my case with a ten-foot pole. My husband had liver trouble. He was operated on for it, and his doctor told me himself that the operation was successful, but in nine days my husband was dead! I refused to pay the bill because that doctor had lied to me. When my husband's will was read I was cut out of it except for a few dollars I was supposed to live on. When I protested, they tried to prove that I was crazy. They are still trying to prove it. His sisters got everything. THEY are the crazy ones. Money crazy! Can you help me get out of here?

CHEATED
Dear Cheated: Where are you?

Dear Abby: I have been going with this boy for two years and we recently became engaged.

She went to a civic club supper to shoot some pictures for her paper and when it came time to draw for the door prize, she was chosen for the honor. That's right, she drew her own name.

But, figuring that it is a one-in-100,000 odds deal, Bob Laster insisted that she draw for the second prize.

She did. Laster won.

Deer hunting season had a Batesville boy a bit shook up. Daddy went hunting, and came home with a big eight-point buck tied to the front of his car.

The youth took one look at it and ran to his mother shouting, "Mommy, Mommy, Daddy killed one of Santa's reindeer."

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — As just about everybody is aware, the new program that seems to have made the biggest hit with television audiences this season is "Bewitched," an ABC comedy series about a pretty young witch married to an average sort of young man who disapproves of magic.

It deserves its popularity. The principal performers, Elizabeth Montgomery and Dick York, are attractive and adroit. The scripts are witty and full of unexpected asides.

Thursday night, Samantha, the young witch who is trying to kick the sorcery habit, meets her mortal in-laws for the first time. The situation is complicated by the unexpected arrival of her Aunt Clara who, in her declining years, is not as competent at witchcraft as she used to be.

Marian Lorne makes a perfect Aunt Clara, particularly when recalling sadly how she used to be able to enter homes by way of the chimney "clean as a whistle," and depart through the walls, "just like butter."

It was a warm little episode. Perry Como had one of his occasional specials on NBC Thursday night. The singer and his crew traveled to Rome for his Christmas show.

High point of the show was some singing by the Sistine Chapel Choir. Como also related the Christmas story against a background of fine music while a pantomime was in progress. In truth, the production and camera work was pretty uninspired.

Como's shows had more pace, spirit and lively dialogue in the old days when he was turning out one-a-week in a rehearsal hall a block from Broadway.

Recommended week end viewing: he is 20. This is quite a shock to me as it wasn't in our plans. I would like some advice about what to do.

UPSET

Dear Upset: If you really loved him, you'd not only "let" him accept the appointment, you'd encourage him, knowing that he always wanted an Army career. Your chief concern seem to be the unhappy prospect of "sitting in the dorm for four years." A career's man's wife needs more understanding than you appear to have. Level with him. And ask him to level with you. I think you could both probably do better in the choice of lifetime partners.

Dear Abby: I just found out that my girl friend kept a diary of our dates and she wrote a bunch of stuff in it that never happened. It was all out of her imagination. Her mother read it now she refuses to let me date her. Abby, we never did anything wrong. What can I do?

NOT GUILTY
Proclaim your innocence and hope her mother believes you. And next time you become interested in a girl who goes in for creative writing, suggest she use an outlet other than her diary for her talents.

Confidential To Bernie: The biggest problem in the world could have been solved when it was small.

...and Happy Birthday, to our Lord.
It is traditional but more significant than any birthday in human history.
There is more to Christmas than tinsel and glittering gifts. On that day, the word of God became flesh and dwelt among us. Love literally came down at Christmas... a new birth to cheer and redeem. It is the birthday of the greatest teacher—the sublimest preacher—the "Good Shepherd," the "Son of God," the "Saviour of Men."
Then, let us not disgrace this Holy Day, Christ's Birthday, through sinful celebration or 'cheap' living. Happy Birthday, Jesus!

It is Paid For By Firms Who Hope To Measure Their Reward In Greater Numbers Of People Attending Church.

THE CHURCHES OF THIS COMMUNITY ARE THE ONLY INSTITUTIONS WHICH HAVE AS THEIR MAIN FUNCTION, THE TRANSFORMING OF HUMAN LIVES. THEY ARE THE SIGN BOARDS POINTING THE WAY TO GOD.

Sponsors of these messages urge faithful church support. Through these pages the appeal is for all men to stand up and be counted . . . to combat Communism on all fronts . . . to be faithful to God.

OUR PASTORS ARE GOD'S SERVANTS WHO CALL THE SIGNALS AGAINST THE ORGANIZED FORCES OF EVIL. THEY INVITE YOU TO ENLIST ON THE SIDE FOR GOD . . .
